HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION

THE LANDS OF THE ABOVE-NAMED ASSOCIAtion are situated in San Francisco and are eligibly and most desirably located, adjoining the Ground purchased by the Presbyterian University Society, on which College buildings are to be at once erected. The site is less than thirty minutes ride from Montgomery street; lying just west or back of the lands of the South San Francisco Homestead and Railroad Association and the Bay View Park, almost within a stone's throw of ST. MARY'S COLLEGE.

The tract will require little or no grading, there being scarcely a single lot on which it would not benefit to build without any change of grade. It commands a

Beautiful View of the Bay,

And its opposite shore, and has a soil of extreme richness. Speculators see the natural attractions of the spot that very many of the wealthy citizens of San Francisco have already purchased whole blocks in the same tract, and design building residences thereon.

The Rev. E. Thomas, D. D.,

Is President of the Association; Lester L. Robinson formerly Vice President of the Sacramento Railroad Company, is the Treasurer, and Thomas H Lewis, formerly of Portland, Secretary.

Four lots, 25x120 feet each, constitute a share, costing $310—paid in monthly installments of $10 each, after the first payment of $20 has been made.

Maps and books giving full information of the workings of the Association can be obtained at the store of J. L. PARRISH & CO.

It is an easy and a cheap way for young men to procure property which will in a few years make them independent.

Hon. Joseph A. Wright.

The Advocate publishes the following reminiscences of this eminent man:

A telegram by the Atlantic Cable brings the sad intelligence of the death of Governor Wright, U. S. Minister to Berlin. He died of dropsy on the 11th inst. The nation will mourn his departure from the scenes and activities of earth. Joseph A. Wright was a native of Indiana, reared and trained by a pious and widowed mother. Arriving at the years of manhood he left the farm and went to Bloomington, without funds, yet resolved to become a student in the State University. Having secured the berth of janitor, he prepared the wood, made the fires, rung the bell, and swept the college rooms, thus paying all his expenses. In the meantime he applied himself to his studies with great success.

Leaving college he became a law student, and in due time was admitted to the bar, and became a partner of Hon. T. A. Howard, in Rockville, Indiana. That partnership continued till the death of Mr. Howard, in 1845. Mr. Wright had eminent success as a lawyer, yet he became a politician. He served in both branches of the State Legislature; he represented his district in Congress. In 1849 he was elected Governor of Indiana, filling a term of three years. In 1852, he was re-elected, filling a term of five years. In 1857 he was appointed Minister to Prussia, and served during President Buchanan's administration.

Returning home just as the war broke out, he identified himself with Mr. Lincoln's administration in the effort to suppress the rebellion.

When Jesse D. Bright was expelled from the U. S. Senate, the Governor of Indiana appointed Mr. Wright to fill the vacancy.

In 1865, Governor Wright was again sent as Minister to Berlin, where he remained faithfully performing his duty till called from labor to rewards.

As a public man, the record of Hon. J. A Wright is without blemish. He was able, honest, candid and earnest in performing duty according to the dictates of his conscience and his best judgment.

There is yet a brighter page in the history of the departed statesman—he was a disciple of the blessed Savior. In the period of his early manhood he made a profession of faith in Christ and became a member of the M. E. Church. He walked worthy of his profession, never blushing to own his Master, whether at home or abroad. It was our privilege at one time to be the pastor of himself and family. We held prayer and class meetings in his parlor. During his residence in Indianapolis, for several years, he taught a Bible Class in the Sunday School.

In Washington he was always known and respected as a Christian man.

In Berlin, his home became a Chapel, and on the Sabbath it was filled with American and English people, to whom Mr. Wright read and expounded the scriptures, leading in prayer and conforming the duties of Christianity with words of earnestness and tenderness. And during his last term at Berlin, his excellent wife and himself have been instrumental in the erection of an elegant Chapel, which belongs to the M. E. Church. The papers recently gave an account of its completion, and its dedication by the Rev. Dr. Jaenby, superintendent of our missions in Germany.

Mr Wright leaves a wife, one son and two daughters. His family weep for the death of an agectionate husband and father. The Church is bereaved of a useful, talented and devoted member The nation mourns the loss of an able, wise and useful statesman. He died in peace, trusting in Christ, and has gone to his home in the skies.

THE GREAT RECONSTRUCTION MEETING IN SAVANNAH, GEORGIA.—The correspondent of the New York Tribune at Savannah, (Ga.) under date of April 2d, writes:

The Reconstruction meeting yesterday was one of the largest ever held in this State. Seven thousand persons were present, white and black, and the enthusiasm was extreme. Ex-Governor James Johnson was President, and among others on the stage were United States District Attorney Fitch, A. L. Harris and Dr. Fulligant, who was Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions. The following were unanimously adopted:

"WHEREAS, Congress, by the passage of the Military bill and the bill supplementary thereto, has clearly indicated the course to be taken by the people in the Southern States in order that they may be restored to their equal rights in the Government of our fathers; therefore,

"Resolved, That we recognize Congress as the supreme legislative power of the nation, and that the laws passed to effect our restoration we will observe and maintain.

"Resolved, That we recognize the progress of ideas on the enfranchisemen of the colored race, and that with mutual forbearance we will stand shoulder to shoulder in reorganizing our State Government, and in maintaining the national unity of the United States 'one and inseperable.'

"Resolved, That the education of the whole people is of the highest importance to the prosperity and perpetuity of a free republican Government, and that we will henceforth earnestly labor for the education of every citizen in our State.

"Resolved, That we respectfully and earnestly request the Military Commander of the Third District, Major General John Pope, to order a registration and election at the earliest practicable moment for a Convention to reorganize the State of Georgia in accordance with the plan of Congress.

"Resolved, That a copy of the proceedings of this meeting be forwarded by the Secretary to his Excellency the President of the United States, and to Major General John Pope"

GRAPHICALLY DRAWN.—The Charleston Mercury, one of the ablest organs of Southern sentiment, tells the following truth about the Democratic party:

"Beyond all doubt or question, the principles of the Democratic party as laid down by Thomas Jefferson, and elucidated by James Madison in his report on the Virginia and Kentucky resolution, are the principles of the Constitution, on which the South have relied, from the commencement of the Government of the United States for protection and liberty. It was the exponent of Southern statesmanship and Southern rule. The South made the Democratic party, and so long as their counsel and control ruled its policy it was the most useful and glorious party the sun ever shone upon. It lifted the United States to a state of strength and power, and gave them a name for free and just Government, unparalleled among the nations of the world But in the course of time corrupt and unprincipled statesmen, chiefly from the North, got possession of the organization. Its principles gave way to expediencies. Compromise after compromise brought it at length, at the opening of the war, to little less than a mere party organization without principles, to obtain place and power. Its last fatal delinquency was its refusal, at the Charleston Convention, to give a pledge to support the decision of the Supreme Court in the Dred Scott case. This broke up the party, produced the election of Mr Lincoln to the Presidency, and brought on the war. Its weak and vacillating course during the war was the natural result of its shattered principles."

CONDITION OF TURKEY.—The Porte has received intelligence of a defeat of the Turkish troops near Agropha, Thessaly, in which engagement the Turkish General was killed.

A very remarkable and eloquent letter had been addressed to the Sultan by Prince Mustapha Fazil Pacha, now in exile in France. He therein traced a forcible picture of the moral degradation of both Turks and Christians under the Sultan's rule, adding also that intellectual degeneracy has resulted from the mechanical government of despotism. He calls on the Sultan to remedy this, not merely by instituting schools, but by establishing freedom. "The first preceptor of people," he says, "the one that creates all the others, and whose place no other can supply, is liberty." "An enslaved nation disdains knowledge as useless." In another place he says, "Nations physically live by liberty, and where no rights exist there, in the end, will brood be wanting." Further on he exclaims, "Let us prove to France, to Germany, to England, to Italy, that neither our race nor our religion oblige us to continue in this state of decrepitude and corruption with which we are reproached. They say that we are dead; let us prove by deed that we are living." He winds up by saying, "Sire, there are no such things as a Christian policy and a Musselman policy, for there is but one justice, and policy is justice in action."

Walla Walla Union Convention.

WALLA WALLA, May 11, 1867.

In obedience to the call of the Walla Walla County Union Central Committee, the Union County Convention assembled. Mr. A. Cox, Vice President, in the chair. Mr. W. M. Smith was appointed Assistant Secretary.

On motion, a Committee on Order of Business and Credentials was appointed, consisting of H. Parker, H. P. Bruce, R. F. Walker, M. B. Ward, and J. D. Cook. While the Committee was out the Vancouver delegation was called upon for an account of its actions. Dr. Baker being called, responded, giving the required information.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Indian Hostilities.

Nearly all the Indian tribes between the Missouri river and the Rocky mountains are now in open and defiant hostility against the whites More extensive preparations have been made by the Government to prosecute war against the hostile tribes this summer than ever before and probably not less than 20,000 troops are now distributed through that country, and employed either in holding military posts or advancing to meet and punish the Indians Difficult as other Indian wars have been during the last two hundred years, the present one is actually the most difficult of all; and the expense attending it is far more considerable than that of any former Indian war On the great plains the Indians may elude and baffle troops even easier than they used to do in the forests of the West and South, they may cut off small parties and even harass considerable bodies of men with greater advantage than they could ever have done in any other part of the continent. Large bodies of troops cannot come up with them, and small bodies can do little against them. The great item of expense attending the war is the transportation of material and stores. Fabulous sums are paid for this service Not unfrequently it costs the Government $200, and even $500 per ton for transportation from the Missouri river to distant points on the plains The operations against the Indians will add greatly to the expenses of the War Department for the present year. Probably not less than $100,000,000 will be required to meet the expenditures, and there is little prospect of a better state of things for years to come. In the present condition of the country, this expense is a very serious tax upon the people, and it will be a piece of great good fortune, when the Indians are so nearly exterminated as to be no longer able to make war upon the advancing forces of civilization.

Promised Reduction of Taxes.

Taxes are high, and the principal occupation of a good many people is that of urging everybody to seek relief from taxation by putting the Government into the hands of the Democratic party Without stopping now to show that this party by its wrongful conduct brought on the rebellion which was the cause of our high taxes, and that it would be folly to trust it again when it has already proved faithless, we would like to inquire by what means it proposes at this time to get rid of the burden of taxation? Its promises are numerous enough, can it give the people evidence of its intention and ability to perform? We have a very large debt, does this party propose to pay it? If so, it would not be in its power to materially reduce the taxes. Would it repudiate the debt? Probably, as this is the only way by which it could fulfill its promise If the debt is to be paid, and the people are resolved it shall be, something more will be necessary to accomplish this object than simply voting a Democratic ticket. This party makes a very pretentious offer, but the fulfillment of its offer is utterly out of its power. Heavy taxes are inevitable for years to come. And if the party which is now making such fine promises were to obtain power at once, it could not relieve the people of the burden except by perfidiously violating the sacred obligation of the nation to pay its debts. That is the only way by which the national taxes could be abolished

Alexandria, Hyperborea, or whatever name Russian America is hereafter to be known by, is without doubt, a valuable country, and cheap at the price paid for it; but we cannot quite agree with some of the arguments which the Eastern papers have presented in favor of the purchase. When, for instance, it is said that we "ought to have that country, if for no other reason, because our Pacific coast is poorly supplied with lumber," —a want which Russian America is well able to supply—we cannot regard the information as of much real value. Most people who are acquainted with "our Pacific coast" had supposed that timber was somewhat abundant in Oregon and Washington Territory, and that as we have enough of it here to supply the markets of the world, there would be no necessity for going so far north to obtain more. There is hardly such a scarcity of timber here as will render the acquisition of the new territory of great value solely on account of the lumber which it will afford the Pacific coast The Eastern reviewers are a little out in this point. But we have so great a country that few people can know much about the resources of distant portions of it, hence the newspaper writers on the other side of the continent may be pardoned mistakes like this, about the Pacific coast.

Albert G. Brown, ex-United States Senator from Mississippi, and one of the rebel leaders, lately wrote a letter in which he made the following frank statements:

We fought to maintain an independent and separate nationality which we had created. And when we ceased to fight and gave up our arms, we laid them at the feet of the conqueror From that day to this we have ceased to have any political rights which the conqueror was bound to respect We often confuse ourselves by thinking too much on the inconsistencies of our opponents instead of arguing consistently from our own premises to our own conclusions.

In the same letter he talked in this way about the negroes.

The negro is a fixture in this country. He is not going out of it, he is not going to die, out, and he is not going to be driven out Nor is his exodus from the country desirable I am frank in saying if they, every one of them, could be packed in a balloon carried over the water and emptied into Africa, I would not have it done, unless indeed it were already arranged that the balloon should return by way of Germany, Ireland, Scotland, etc, and bring us a return of white laborers

If the negro is to stay here, and it is desirable to have him do so, what is the duty of the intelligent white man towards him? Why, to educate him, admit him, when sufficiently educated, to the right of voting, and as rapidly as possible prepare him for a safe and rational enjoyment of that "equality before the law," which as a free man he has a right to claim, and which we cannot long refuse to give.

The Herald don't want party politics mentioned in the coming city election Of course not—because its party hasn't strength enough to win. It would rather have things kept quiet, let its friends work "on the sly," and by artifices, stratagems and collusions, elect a ticket composed of Democrats and Union renegades who would use all their efforts to build up the party which the "organ" is laboring for It is afraid of an open contest, otherwise it would have been flying a Democratic ticket weeks ago.

The Central Pacific Railroad will pass sixteen miles north of Virginia City, Nevada, and is expected to reach the point most nearly opposite that town by next spring Yet the Virginia City people are taking no steps to build a branch road to connect with the main line. They have talked about it a good deal, but the enterprise resembles a good many similar ones in Oregon,—all promise and no performance.

The process of reading Democrats out of the party is going on in a most interesting manner at Walla Walla. The "straights" of course denounce the "bolters," and much fun (for lookers on) is the consequence

A correspondent of the Statesman writing from Washington reviews some incidents connected with the doings of the famous Legislature, which sat at Boise City last winter

The dirty committee has laid about a page of complaints before Mr Seward in regard to the bogus dispatches that Secretary Howlett laid before the Legislature, his refusal to testify before the committee, and his 'refusal to pay the members, etc Mr Seward says that this charge of bogus is very interesting, as he sent one of the dispatches himself and Secretary McCulloch sent the other one His also says that members of the Legislature are required to take the test oath, and especially that the Idaho Legislature ought to take it; and so far as these charges will affect Mr Howlett's removal they are not worthy of any notice.

Political Discussion at Vancouver, W T.

VANCOUVER, May 21, 1867

It may be well to notice more fully the speeches of the candidates for the Delegateship of Washington Territory, which came off here on last Saturday, with a short notice of the electric touches of the Hon S. Garfield, than has hitherto been done.

Mr Clark, the Democratic candidate, led off in a talk of near two hours Such a talk for a political speech, by a candidate for Congress, certainly was never listened to before As a whole, it was the most tiresome wearisome affair that ever politeness required of an intelligent audience to listen to It would be impossible to convey a correct idea of the flatness and absurdity of that harangue without a reproduction of the whole In a word, it was the essence of demagogueism, interlarded with egotistical allusions to himself and the wonders he had performed and could perform That if this Territory would elect him, the loyal Congress of this mighty Nation would be taught their duty—would hastily repeal their obnoxious acts that extend just and equal rights to the poor and the oppressed Claimed the elevation of the ignorant and the oppressed was sure to produce the depression and downfall of himself and his political friends, (I agree with him there), and appealed to the lowest prejudices of the ignorant and selfish to prevent that catastrophe. His whole object seemed to be to influence the selfish passions of fallen humanity, to ridicule the elevating, civilizing, liberty-loving spirit of the age, and holding up as commendable, the selfish animal instincts of the vicious and depraved Such speeches do the cause of humanity good and will help us in the contest by the force of reaction His friends have been heard to express their disgust of it

Mr Flanders followed in a short but pertinent speech of about thirty minutes The audience soon awoke to life and animation by his earnest and sincere expression of views. He called attention to the fact that Mr Clark had not avowed a single political principle, that his whole speech was the speech of a demagogue. He refused to contend on that arena, to his opponent he would surrender such laurels, and he fully prepared the large audience for the "feast of reason and flow of soul" which was soon to follow, and did follow The cheers of the audience indicated their preference Mr. Flanders had four fifths of them As Mr Flanders closed, Mr Garfield came promptly forward Four or five of the "red mouthed" immediately arose and left amid the shouts and jeers of the audience. The others had not the courage to follow, but had to stand it They were objects of pity for the orator, as he proceeded step by step, cutting and dissecting them and their purposes and objects. He proved they were contending for the right to represent negroes in Congress without the consent of the negro, and that the Union party intended that Democrats should not represent the negroes without the negroes' consent. Whereupon the nearest rob to the speaker inquired, "What made 'em, then?" From the onslaughton that followed, it is my opinion that fellow won't ever ask Garfield while speaking again. Being about as dark as those they wish to represent, he turned almost white, while each individual separate hair stood on end. Mr Garfield reviewed the questions of the day; he showed the great and noble purposes of the loyal people of this nation, and also the object and purposes of the traitors of the South and their Democratic sympathizers of the North. The description has done good and its effects will be seen on the first Monday of June next.

LOOKER ON.

Alabama

[From the Montgomery (Ala.) Mail]

We are glad to see that in the first election which has taken place since the military law was put in force, the native born whites and colored people stood together and voted for the same candidate. At Newbern, North Carolina, at the election day before yesterday, the colored people voted unanimously for the Southern candidate That is right. Why should not the whites and colored people work together for the same object? During the war the latter ploughed our fields and husbanded our crops, took care of our property, and even in some cases defended their masters and mistresses. For all of this we owe them a debt of gratitude which can be paid, and paid without loss of self respect, by treating them with the utmost kindness and convincing them we are really their truest friends. And to whom should they look with more certainty of sympathy and aid and receiving instruction than to those with whom they grew up in the most intimate relations, and who, though they claimed the product of their labor, always provided for their wants and exercised over them the tenderest and most watchful care?

The freedmen of the South have no truer friends than the whites of the South, to whom alone they have to look for justice and security, whenever the soldiers are removed. Upon us, who played with them in their childhood and grew up with them in the same homes, will devolve the duty of securing them against those strangers who talk to them fairly and swindle them continually.

The following is from the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser:

There never was a time in the history of the State when there was a greater necessity for perfect unity among the people than at the present time, nor was there ever a time when there was less cause or less excuse for discord. Why, then should there be any dissension among us? Or, indeed, we may ask, is there any dissension? There is simply a wide and radical difference between certain portions of our citizens, but we think the difference is not so real as it appears: It may be safely assumed that the State will be re-organized in conformity with the provisions of the Sherman Bill, Legislation by Congress to that end has already progressed so far as to divest that question of all possible doubt We know that ordinarily the tone of the newspaper press may be safely taken as a fair reflex of the popular sentiment. But this is not altogether the case in regard to the pending proposition for reconstructing the State We have seen letters from various portions of the State, written by men of intelligence, observation and influence, and they all tell substantially the same story. A prominent Circuit Judge of North Alabama, writes that "the people are panting for a settlement of our political troubles" Another influential Judge writes from Middle Alabama "Another State should at once be placed in line under the provisions of the Sherman bill" A State Senator writes from South Alabama "A large majority of the people of this country are for prompt reconstruction under the recent act of Congress" A Representative from North Eastern Alabama, writes "The masses here are for a prompt compliance with the Sherman bill." A Representative from North Alabama writes. The people in this section are not only anxious for a settlement, but determined to have it A few are grumbling and trying to hold back, but the people pay no attention to them All who oppose reconstruction must either stand aside or be run over.

We could quote from many other letters from representative men, but the quotations already given are sufficient They all point in one direction, and that is towards a definite and effective reorganization of the State under the late act of Congress The act provides for a settlement, and there is an unmistakable determination on the part of the people to carry it into full effect

Gov Smyth of New Hampshire, introduced Speaker Colfax in Manchester in the following words

"Seven years ago I had the honor of presenting to you on this platform a prominent Western gentleman, who I then said would probably be the next President, which prophecy was thought by many at the time to be quite visionary The next President, however, proved to be that person, is now dear to every lover of justice and liberty, not only all over our own land, but throughout the world To-night I have the pleasure of introducing to you our distinguished visitor, the popular Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, Hon Schuyler Colfax—a gentleman whose name is familiar to you all, and who is quite as likely to be our next President as was Mr Lincoln at the time to which I referred

RUSSIAN AMERICA.—The San Francisco Times says that it has been suggested that our newly acquired territory be called Lincoln, in honor of our lamented President, who was the savior of his country This would bring the territories of Washington and Lincoln so near together as our English cousins would allow us at the present time. It is understood however, to be the wish of Secretary Seward that the new territory be called Alexandria, in honor of the Emperor of Russia under whose reign the cession was made to the United States This would be a graceful compliment to the wise and liberal minded monarch who now controls the destinies of Russia, our friend and ally. It is possible, however, that some admirer of our "ruling monarch" might suggest the name of "Johnsonia" as the fittest title for the new possessions

TELEGRAPH.—In Belgium, where every Post Office has its telegraph wire, a message of twenty words is sent to any part of the kingdom for ten cents In Switzerland, under the same system, both messages and money orders can be sent at very low rates, and people send more messages than letters

ONE GOLD WATCH, worth $100;
150 CORDS DRY FIR WOOD, in 8 shares, to be placed on the Brooklyn Wharf.

The Steamer is 54 tons burthen, 52 horse-power engine, propeller wheel, draft of water 5 feet She is being thoroughly refitted and refurnished as a Passenger Boat. The Boat will be delivered in perfect order, free from all incumbrance, and Warranty Deeds made for the real estate, to the persons drawing the same. Tickets can be had of O. P. FERRY, in Portland where the money will be left on deposit till the prizes are drawn and delivered

Any person having a claim against me and wishing a ticket, can get an order for one by calling on me on board the boat. The person drawing the gold watch can have $100 in gold coin, if preferred

O P FERRY, Broker, R. J LADD, ex Sheriff, A. L. ZEIDER, U S Marshal, and C S. SILVER, Merchant, of Portland, are the Committee and Judges to direct the Drawing of Prizes The Prizes will be drawn before the 1st of August, if all the tickets are taken before that time

☞ The above liberal offer is made to the traveling public to enable the subscriber to pay his debts, and not with any reference to speculation, as all the property is valued at much less than its cost, (the Steamer alone having cost $11,000), and the price for carrying passengers to Astoria being much less than the usual fare

CAPITAL STOCK, $1,000,000!

Directors:

LOUIS A. GARNETT.

LOUIS A GARNETT President and Manager
JOHN HEWSTON, Jr Chemist and Superintendent.

THIS COMPANY HAVING GREATLY enlarged their Refining Works, and introduced many other important improvements, are pleased to announce that they feel warranted in again reducing materially their terms of doing business

THE TARIFF OF CHARGES

Which they now submit to the public considered with reference to the cost of material and labor—is lower than in any other part of the world, and secures to the mining interest of this coast an important increase in both the minting and commercial value of bullion.

Their charges hereafter will be as follows:

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED GOLD BARS.

One-eighth of one per cent (heretofore a quarter) for all amounts over $1,600, and two dollars for any smaller sum. Returns made in twenty-four hours

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED SILVER BARS

Two dollars for the gold contained, up to $1,600, and one-eighth of one per cent, for all amounts over that sum, and one per cent on the silver contained. Returns made in twenty four hours.

FOR REFINING DEPOSITS MADE FOR COIN OR FINE BARS

On bullion under 300 parts gold, 2 cents per ounce
On bullion from 300⅓@600 parts gold, 4 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 600⅓@750 parts gold, 6 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 750⅓@949⅓ parts gold, 8 cents per ounce
Above 950 the only charge will be for coinage But there will be no charge for refining less than two dollars

FOR COINING GOLD.

This charge will be the same as at the Mint—half of one per cent.—and which is paid by us to that institution But there will be no charge in future for making fine gold or silver bars from bullion refined by us

RETURNS IN COIN IN FORTY-EIGHT HOURS.

Silver contained in deposits for coin will be accounted for at the same rate customary at the Mint

Gold bars of other Assayers, in good standing, will be cashed by us at the highest market rates

Dust and bullion can be forwarded to us from any part of the country, and returns made through Wells, Fargo & Co's Express

CHARGES AT U S BRANCH MINT

For the convenience of those not familiar with the terms of the Mint, we subjoin the tariff of charges now in force at that institution

For refining bullion under 300 parts gold, 3 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 300⅓@600 parts gold, 5 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 600⅓@750 parts gold, 7 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 750⅓@830 parts gold 11 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 830⅓@949⅓ parts gold, 14 cents per ounce
The charge for coinage is half of one per cent, and the charge for making fine silver bars, the same

Comparing the net value of deposits for coinage, with the proceeds of imparted gold bars sold in the market—assuming that the bars have cost ½ of one per cent—they must be sold at the following par rates, to equal the return which would have been made had they been deposited for coinage:

850 per to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.
845 per to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.
865 per to equal San Francisco A. & R Works return, at refining charge of 8 cents mh1d4p3m

'Too Late for Publication'—The Herald of yesterday morning says: "The regular toasts read at the late Odd Fellows' Banquet, came into our hands too late for publication in this issue, and hence, too late to be serviceable to us." To those Odd Fellows who know the understanding in relation to the publication of the toasts, and to ourself, we owe an explanation. The copy of the toasts was procured by us on Sunday with the understanding that when set up, it should be handed in to the Herald office. We kept the copy over till Monday so that the publication in the Oregonian should not anticipate its appearance in the Herald; and this, at the request of Odd Fellows, some of whom are friends of mine paper and some of the other. On Monday afternoon, when our compositors were ready to go to work, at 2 P. M., we gave them the copy and they set it up, the first thing they did. As soon as the first pages were set up—about 4 o'clock—we took them into the Herald's composing room and handed them to the foreman; and as soon as the rest came from the printers, they were also handed into the Herald's composing room. The lines and all the pages were then in the possession of the Herald office some time before the compositors quit for supper. Whether this was "too late for publication," is not for us to say; but had we not had the copy until nine or even ten o'clock in the evening, we could have got it up easily for the next morning's paper. We only notice this matter because there was an understanding between us and the committee that we would not publish the toasts in advance of the Herald's first publication day of this week; and because Herald's item will convey to the Odd Fellows an implied assertion that we kept the copy till "too late for publication" in that paper's issue of Tuesday. We wish the Odd Fellows to know that we kept strict good faith in the matter and so far as any implied or direct charge that we kept the copy unduly or unfairly is concerned, that it is false.

Take Care of the Boys.—There are, in this city, a great number of boys who run about the streets at all hours of the day and night and who seem to be under no healthful restraint. The natural tendency among boys allowed thus to lie around loose, is to get into mischief and crime. During Monday night, at about 2 o'clock, four or five of these boys were picked up by a police officer on the wharf in rear of the buildings between Washington and Alder streets, and confined till morning in the city jail. They had in their possession a small lamp, which they said they had "nipped," and one of them said they were "nipping things." A few other articles were subsequently found which had been "nipped." The boys said that two others, who were afterwards caught, were the persons who made the hole in the wall of Mr. Richardson's store, during the night of the 12th inst. All but the two who were thus pointed out as the burglars, were released from custody yesterday morning, there being no charge against them. The two were kept some time longer, but as nothing was developed against them, they were also released. The police officers, however, think it quite improbable that the boys, who are quite young, should have either the courage or skill to make such an attempt as that made on Mr. Richardson's store. Several of these boys are mere children, and it would seem that nothing less than morally criminal negligence must attach to those who have natural guardianship of them, and who allow them to roam about the city at such hours of the night. Under the worship of the older boys of the party, they were, on this occasion, probably about to engage in predatory enterprise which might have resulted in more serious consequence than simply a night's lodging in the city jail. Under such tutorship, they must inevitably become pests and bad men. Parents owe it to society as well as to their children, to know that their boys are at home at proper hours.

Spurious Oil.—The late wool growers' convention at Albany "spoke right out in meeting," in the following resolution, which was adopted unanimously.

Resolved, That the practice of assorting our wools in San Francisco, and placing our fine wool to the credit of California—mixing the burry and inferior wool of that State with the coarser grades of Oregon wool, and marking it "Oregon wool," is downright rascality, and deserves our censure. Such practice is calculated to work us great injury in the Eastern market.

This is not the first time that this "downright rascality" way the Californians have of treating Oregon wool, has been publicly mentioned. That the charge is true admits, perhaps, of very positive proof. It is just of a piece with the practice which succeeded for years in keeping Oregon flour in a second rate place in the market. No sooner, however, did Oregon flour get into the New York market, than California had to take the second place. The dodge of calling it all California flour did not win, because Oregon merchants shipped without the intervention of California forwarders, and it went in the original packages, with the Oregon brands on them. The same course pursued with Oregon wool will straighten out the tricks which have always heretofore existed in the Pacific coast shipments of that article. Our wool growers should by all means send their wool direct, with the Oregon brand on it. In this way only can we prevent Californians from making a name and fame, at our expense and with our products.

The Latest Style.—The latest style of bonnet has just made its appearance. It is called the "Revenue Cutter," and consists of a two-cent internal revenue stamp, worn on the top of the head, and tied under each ear with a shoe-string. It gents a very pretty appearance, and must be very comfortable at this season of the year.—Yreka Journal.

By the aid of a powerful magnifying glass, we ascertained one of them, yesterday, and we have no hesitation in pronouncing it the sweetest thing of the season. In a clear day and under favorable circumstances, we think it would be visible to the naked eye.

Temperance Lecture.—It will be remembered that Prof. Harpending is announced to lecture to-night at the M. E. Church, on the subject of temperance. His lecture will be designed to show: 1st, The Scriptural teachings as to temperance. 2d, The evils of intemperance. 3d, The moral principle involved in the traffic in ardent spirits. 4th, The means available for its abatement. The lecture will be, no doubt, an interesting one, and we hope to see a good audience present. Prof. Harpending is here to lecture by invitation of Multnomah Lodge of Good Templars.

Bohemian Turner Fest.—We learn that it is in contemplation by the Turn-Vereins of California and Oregon to hold a general convention or Bundes Mai Fest, of all the Turn Verein Societies of the Pacific coast, about the middle of next May. It has already been determined to hold the Fest at Portland, Oregon, but the day and the details are not yet settled upon. The festival will continue through three days, and it may be confidently expected that it will be the grandest thing of the kind ever got up in this State, or perhaps, on this coast.

Spelling.—If the school master is at present in Oregon, he is incontestibly absent temporarily from Portland. Yesterday we saw a lot of shingles on the P. T. Co.'s wharf, marked "A. H. W., Independence." The following copy of a "notice" posted not long ago in a certain locality of the city, was handed us a few days since: "no Smokin on this block except in the office or round the furnis A[illegible] in dry wether." In a certain other locality can be seen, any day, a board nailed up at a corner, on which are painted the words "dilogate for Sail."

Complaints.—A complaint was lodged in the Recorder's Court, yesterday, against Margaret Phillips, a saloon keeper, for keeping open a tippling house for traffic on Sunday. Wm. McDonald was arrested yesterday afternoon at a saloon on North Front street, for drunken and disorderly conduct. Both complaints will be heard this morning.

Fruit and Flower Depot.—We take pleasure in calling attention to the Fruit and Flower Depot of Mr. A. M. Miller, at the corner of Washington and First streets. The place has recently been fitted up in tasteful style and it really looks like an oasis in the desert of Front street. See Mr. Miller's advertisement on second page.

A New Establishment.—Messrs. Quinoth & Harris are now opening a stock of dry goods, millinery and notions, which we advise our lady friends to examine. They will find Mr Quinoth, who was so long and favorably known in the "City of Paris Store," on hand to attend to their calls. See the new advertisement.

Soap.—Mr. Higgins of this city has recently bought out the soap works at Oregon City, and now has the soap manufacturing business in this State all in his own hands. He has the secret of the ingredients of a very superior article, which is probably not known to many soap manufacturers on this coast.

Shooting Match.—The place selected for the approaching shooting match between Tom Tucker and George Jones, is in Mr. Stevens' field near the Insane Asylum, and the time next Saturday afternoon. The stakes, $50 a side, are up, in the hands of Mr. Wm. Bock.

Willamette Freights.—Arrived per steamer Senator from Oregon City, Tuesday, May 21st: 251 sks bran, 150 sks middlings, 45 bags feed, 1,053 qr sks flour, 1 box eggs, 28 bales wool, 316 bags wheat, 1 cow, and a lot of household furniture.

Treasurer Recs.—The treasure receipts from the Upper Columbia are exceedingly light just at present. Wells, Fargo & Co received, yesterday, about $3,000.

Mere Picnics.—There are to be more picnics yet before May closes. Everybody goes, and everybody before going should go to Barman Bros. and buy one of their elegant and cheap picnic suits.

Notice to the Public.—From and after this day the well-known French Lafayette Restaurant will serve a first-class table at the reduced price of Seven Dollars per week.

Mrs. Anna Maria Spooner, 36 Bond street, Brooklyn, gives her opinion of the value and utility of the Grover & Baker Machine for family use as follows: "I believe it to be the best, all things considered, of any that I have known. In the first place, it is very simple and easy learned; the sewing from the ordinary spools is a great advantage; the stitch is entirely reliable. It does ornamental work beautifully, and the embroidery stitch; it is not liable to get out of order, it operates very easily. I suppose I can sum it all up by saying it is a perfect machine. I have had occasion to compare the work with that of other machines. The result was always favorable to the Grover and Baker Machine." W Currier & Co, Agents, 103, Front street, Portland.

"The Colors for Me."—That is what every lady says who has used the Family Dye Colors of Howe & Stevens. The fact plainly is that no other dyes have the slightest show where these are about. Sold by Smith & Davis.

FROM IDAHO.

We obtain the following from the Boise Statesman of the 14th inst.:

Homicide and Suicide.

The most shocking tragedy that it ever became our duty to record, happened in this city last Sunday morning. Louis Risley, a bar keeper in the Central saloon, was a man of about twenty-eight years of age, and for two years or so a resident of this place. For several months past he has been in ill health. He was addicted to hard drinking, and within the last week had an attack of delirium tremens. After the attack he expressed himself to several persons as of the opinion that if he had any more attacks of the kind he should kill some one, and it would as likely be his nearest friend as any that his head was not exactly right any way. This, it appears, was all not enough to alarm anyone or to give apprehension that he was dangerously insane. Saturday night, between the hours of twelve and one o'clock the e was a party engaged in a game of whist at the Central saloon, one of whom was Territorial Collector, Mr. H. B. Lane. Risley was attending the bar, and was asked by Lane to bring some drinks for the table. Risley answered pleasantly and went behind the bar, as was supposed, for that purpose. Several persons sitting by observed nothing in his action unusual or that could in the slightest degree excite suspicion. But a few moments elapsed when he was seen to go behind the bar to the corner of the billiard table and level a revolver at the persons sitting at the card table. He fired immediately, hitting Mr. Lane in the back as he was rising from the table. Before the room was cleared he fired again, the second time at Judge Gillespie, who was sitting near the stove. Gillespie now started for the door, during which time he saw Risley turn the pistol towards his own head and fired, and afterwards fire at him (G.) again, the ball passing through the door. As soon as he got out at the door he found Lane fallen near the sidewalk, having nearly breathed his last. Mr Lane was carried into the drug store of Quiney & Denham, during which time Risley shot at himself the second time, the ball entering the forehead. He lived about half an hour. No cause can be assigned for this tragical affair but insanity. This shocking affair cast a terrible gloom over the whole community, unmitigated by any complication of provocation or excuse. Mr Lane had been more than a year Territorial Controller, and was a young man of more than ordinary ability and social qualities. He was to have been married in a few days to a most estimable young lady of this city, who, it is needless to say, is heart broken at the terrible affliction. The body was buried on Sunday with Masonic honors, and the funeral was the most numerously attended of any that ever took place in Boise City.

A Noble Boy Drowned.—The San Francisco Times of May 6th, gives the particulars of a late and case of drowning:

Saturday afternoon a number of small boys went to bathe in the bay near the Potrero. After being in the water a short time, one of their number, son of Martin Kedon, residing on Ritch street, swam out a considerable distance. Suddenly he was seen to go down, come up and sink again. He rose to the surface a third time and, throwing up his hands, cried out: "I am drowning; good bye!" and then disappeared. His danger had been discovered before, and a brave boy, named Murdock, struck out to try and rescue him. When young Kedon was sinking the last time Murdock caught him by one leg, but was dragged under and compelled to let go. Some of the boys hastened to inform the father of the sad event, while others procured boats and men to assist in recovering the body. After a search of about two hours the boy's body was found floating on the surface, and one of his former comrades swam to the place and brought the body to the shore. If a boat had been at hand on this occasion the life of young Kedon might easily have been saved. He was an uncommonly bright lad, aged about eight years.

The most wonderful echo in the world is at Austin, Texas. The guns which were fired there on the morning of Washington's birthday, did not cease to reverberate till 8 o'clock in the evening.

We take pleasure in commending to our readers Redding's Russia Salve, the advertisement of which appears in our columns to-day.

Benjamin Todd will lecture on Spiritualism at Oro Fino Hall in this city, every Sunday at two o'clock P. M. and half-past seven P. M., during the months of May, June and July, 1867. He will also hold Question Meetings at said Hall every Saturday evening at half-past seven o'clock, during the said months.

Something New in Dental Surgery.
Extracting teeth by Dr. Richardson's apparatus, with Ether or Rhigolene Spray, is local in its application, the tooth and surrounding parts only becoming insensible to pain. Those suffering from bad teeth can now have them removed free from pain and without the effects of inhaling chloroform, ether or nitrous oxide (laughing gas).
N. B.—To strangers I would say, that a constantly increasing Dental Practice for the last 6 years in this city, will be a sufficient guarantee for them to receive a First-Class and Finished Piece of Work. Numerous testimonials to the same can be given at the Office.

Consumption like the Rattle Snake, always gives warning of its approach. A hacking cough, dull pain in the chest, difficulty of breathing, are the indications that there is more or less irritation of the lungs. If this be neglected, and go on until pustules are formed, followed by tubercles, which sometimes eat off the blood vessels, death will be the result. Allen's Lung Balsam will heal the irritated parts, allay the inflammation, removing the phlegm and matter, thus stopping the cough, and preventing fatal consumption. PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER, after a thorough trial, by innumerable living witnesses, has proved itself the Medicine of the Age. Although there have been many medicinal preparations brought before the public since the first introduction of Perry Davis' Vegetable Pain Killer, and large amounts expended in their introduction, the Pain Killer has continued to steadily advance in the estimation of the world as the best Family Medicine ever introduced. It is an internal and external remedy. One positive proof of its efficacy is, that the sales have constantly increased, and wholly upon its own merits. The effect of the Pain Killer upon the patient, when taken internally in case of Cold, Cough, Bowel Complaints, Cholera, Dysentery, and other affections of the system, has been truly wonderful, and has won for it a name among Medical preparations that can never be forgotten. Its success in removing pain, as an external remedy in case of Burns, Bruises, Sores, Sprains, Cuts, Sting of Insects, and other causes of suffering, has secured for it such a host of testimony, as an almost infallible remedy, that it will be handed down to posterity as one of the greatest medical discoveries of the nineteenth century.

A Curtain Lecture.

"O go to sleep, you old fool!"

"Don't interrupt me, woman! I tell you it's absurd—you learn to skate. You will be wanting to play fairy in the Black Crook, next. I tell you skating is an accomplishment suited only to youth and grace, and comeliness of face and symmetry of figure. Nothing is so charming as to see a beautiful girl, in the coquettish costume of the rinks with cheeks rosy with exertion, and eyes beaming with exciteument, skimming the ice like a bird—and swooping down upon a group of gentlemen, and pretending she can't stop herself, and landing in the arms of the very young man her father don't allow her to know—and darting away again and falling on her head and exposing herself—exposing herself to remarks about her carelessness—Madam, hold your tongue!—and always taking care to fall when that young man is close by to pick her up. It is charming! They look pretty and interesting, too, when they are just learning—when they stand still a long time in one place, and then start one foot out gingerly, and it makes a break for the other side of the pond and leaves the balance of the girl sprawling on this side. But you! You look fat and awkward and dismal enough any time, but when you are on skates you waddle off as stuffy and stupid and ungainly as a buzzard that's had half a horse for dinner. I won't have it Madam! And you get under a little precarious headway, and then put you feet together and drift along, stooping your head and shoulders, and holding your arms out like you expected a church was going to fall on you, it aggravates the life out of me! And Tuesday, when I was not enough to get on skates myself, and kicked the Irish giant's eye out the first dash, and hit an icy head and cracked the ice so that it looked like the sun with all its rays had dropped when I struck, and they fined me ninety-two dollars for ruining the man's pond, I was terrified with the conviction that I had gone through to the inside of the world, because I saw the parallels of latitude glimmering all around me; and what was it but you, in your awkwardness fetching up over me with your confounded 'tilters' on? You've got to discard those things. I can't stand the pew rent, and I won't."

"Mr. Twain, I am sure—"

"Hold your clatter!" I tell you you shan't bring odium upon the family by your disgraceful attempts to skate; sprawling around with your big feet like a cow plowing her way down hill in slippery weather. May be you wouldn't be so handy about displaying those feet of yours if you knew what occurred when I took your shoes down to get them mended."

"What was it? Tell me what it was; tell me what it was this minute! I just know it's one of your lies!"

"Oh, don't mind; it ain't of any consequence; go to sleep."

"But it is of consequence! You've got to tell me, you shan't aggravate me this way; I won't go to sleep till I know what it was."

"Oh, it wasn't anything."

"Mr. Twain, I know better! You're just doing this to try to drive me distraction! What did that shoemaker say about my shoe? What did he do? Quick!"

"Well if you must know, he—he—however, it is of no consequence."

"Mr. Twain."

"Well, he—he took it and gazed upon it in silence, and put his handkerchief to his eyes and burst into tears."

"Why you born fool! Twain! are you going stark, staring crazy?"

"He just stood there and wept as if his heart would break, poor devil! There, now let's go to sleep"

"Sleep, you lunatic! I'll never close my eyes till I know what that idiot was crying about—and you won't either, I can tell you that. Come."

"O, it don't matter."

"Mr. Twain, if you say that again, I say I'll make [illegible] sorry for it; what was that old numbskull [illegible] g about?"

"Well, he—he—"

"W-e-l-l, h-e. Out with it! do you [illegible] to—to—Twain, I'll snatch them pet fringes off till the sides of your head is as bald as the top of it!"

"Well he—poor fellow! he said he doted on his grandmother—fairly doted on her. She had nursed him, you know, because his mother was always feeble, and so—. Well, he came to this country years ago, and first he set up in the vegetable line, and got along pretty well, and was about to send to England for the old lady, when hard times came and he got broke. He went into fruit then, after that into milk—into all sorts of things, you know, but he got disappointed every time till this present business fetched him out at last, all right, and he sent right off for the old woman. She landed here four weeks ago, but died the very same night. It was hard, very hard, after all his waiting and toiling for fifteen years, to get over here at last and have her die on his hands. He—he—well, he was disgusted. However, he laid her out, and he and his friends set up with her, and by-and by the memory of her virtues softened his bitterness and turned it to a tender grief—a settled melancholy that hung about his spirit like a pall for many days. However, by patiently striving to keep sad thoughts out of his mind, he was finally beginning to regain some little of his old-time cheerfulness when your shoe reminded him so painfully of his poor sainted grandmother's sofia—"

"Take that, you brute! and if you dare to come back [illegible] I'll risk you out again! You degraded old man!"

MARK TWAIN.

A NEW EXCUSE FOR ELOPEMENT.—The New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette says.

There was a funny case of elopement in Brooklyn last week, and one of the Sunday papers has served it up in the highly original and delectable style of which I gave you an example or two last week. The parties to it boarded, in one of the fashionable boarding houses on Brooklyn Heights—there are nothing but boarding houses on the Heights now. The lady and her lover left the house at different hours on the same day, the latter carrying off the lady's wardrobe and jewelry in his trunks. The lady soon joined him, however, and the pair left for Europe, or parts unknown leaving behind, in the lady's hand-writing, an explanation of the reasons for her flight. It was in the shape of a letter, in which, after declaring that she loved him (the forsaken) second only to her husband Montague," (the taker) she goes on to say, in course in a postscript, as follows:

"I [illegible] you remember, darling, the evening we had [illegible] charming charades at Mrs. Brady's the [illegible] birthday of the boarding house) when the [illegible] was played? You know we represented the syllable ty by a marriage, in which I personified a bride, and my dear Montague the bridegroom; and then you did the horrid rant by tearing about the stage and reciting a stupid piece of dreadful French poetry. How could you, when the whole word tyrant was acted, take the part of 'Gesler,' while my own Montague took that of the noble 'William Tell?' Oh! I shall never forget how splendid he looked, with his pants rolled up to the top of his boots, and my red opera cloak and plumed riding hat on his head. Oh! how glorious was the burst of sentiment when his manly voice declared he would die for his country. My whole soul was filled with admiration, and then and there I determined I should be his and only his. Why did you take such a ridiculous part as 'Cock Robin,' in the Babes in the Woods? You looked so silly hopping about the stage with two feather-brushes in your coat-tail pocket."

The forsaken husband, instead of being quiet about the affair, and consulting only his lawyer, has been running about the country showing every one this letter. This should be a warning to young gentlemen, who ought not to take ridiculous parts in charades, if their lady-loves are also romantically disposed. William Tell is certainly more sublime than Cock Robin.

"UP THE SPOUT."—James Greenwood's account of "An Evening with My Uncle," reveals the mysteries of a London pawnbroker's shop. Most persons have heard the slang phrase about putting things "up the spout," but perhaps do not understand the origin of it. It is explained in the following paragraph. "Against the wall opposite to the boxes, and facing the middle one, the "spout" is built. The "spout" a pawnbroker's, as the reader will please to understand, is a boxed in space penetrating the upper warehouse floors, and contrived for the more ready delivery of pledged goods; which consisting as they usually do among poor folks, of wearing apparel, and boots and shoes and bed-linen, may be collected from their various places of stowage and bundled by the dozen through the aperture in question from the top of the house to the bottom. To accommodate Uncle Gawley's extensive business, his "spout" was of enormous size. The opening was as large as a kitchen chimney, and to two sides of it upright ladders were fixed.

STUDYING OUT OF SCHOOL.—In the last annual report of the city of Boston, after declaring the intention of the Board to prevent all overworking of the brain, and expressing very sound reflections on the subject, it is remarked:

In accordance with these views, the assigning to girls of lessons to be studied out of school, has been prohibited; and, to meet this subject still more closely, no lessons studied in school are allowed to be so long as to make it requisite for a scholar of ordinary capacity to study out of school in order to learn them, it is also emphatically required that every teacher shall see that these regulations are faithfully observed.

The Trichiniasis Again.

Dr Edward Hitchcock, of Amherst college, says the Springfield (Mass) Republican, has examined a portion of the muscle taken from the body of Miss Ida Hall, who died in this city last week, and found the trichinæ in it in large numbers He fully agrees with most of our resident physicians that the young lady's death was caused by the terrible disease, trichiniasis, and furnishes the following interesting historical and descriptive account of it

The disease known as trichiniasis is caused by the presence of a minute parasite infesting the voluntary muscles. The name of this animal is trichina spiralis, and in its popular acceptation may be called a minute worm, somewhat like the common vinegar eel. This animal was first made known to the world by Prof Richard Owen of the British museum, London, in 1835, and has been subsequently studied minutely by Drs Bowditch and Wyman of Boston, and Dr. Dalton of New York. The animals which the trichinæ most commonly infests are man and the common hog, though it has been found in other domestic animals It is however most commonly introduced into the human system by using some preparation of pork as an article of food It probably can be introduced only through the intestines, and not by the skin. Its tenacity of life, like that of some of the lower animals, is not a little remarkable, since it withstands a great amount of heat. It readily withstands heat to the amount of 160 Fahrenheit, and is not killed by a temperature of 15 degrees below zero. Various chemical substances, even those which partially decompose the muscle, including common salt, are not injurious to it, and smoking of hams does not destroy it. Trichiniasis has never prevailed extensively in this country, but has been well known in Northern Germany and Prussia, and somewhat in France. And in those countries where sausages are common articles of diet, and especially when eaten uncooked, this disease is well known. So that it is safe to say that if a person will eat ham, sausages or any portion of the meat of a hog in a raw or partially cooked condition, he runs a great risk of inflicting upon himself this very uncomfortable disease.

The trichinæ, when it arrives at its adult or perfect state, surrounds itself with a cyst or sac, in which it remains indefinitely, when, if chance favors its entrance into the stomach of another animal, it commences anew its cycle of development, otherwise it perishes. It is necessary, then, for the development of the trichinæ, that it be ingested into the stomach of another animal, from which it bores through the stomach and bowels, and ultimately reaches its destination, the muscles of the body. Each trichina is capable of producing from 400 to 1,000 young. After the trichinous food has been eaten, in the course of the week the young are hatched and commence seeking their "habitat" in the muscles.

As already mentioned, these animals, when in their perfect state, become encysted, or lodged in a little bladder. If they pass to this condition without destroying the individual in whom they live, the "host" may discover from the disease. In the case of Miss Ida Hall none of them, so far as ascertained, had passed to this stage of the disease, but had destroyed her life in the earlier stage of disease, but destroyed her life in the earlier stages of it. Some authors state that as many as 7,200 trichinæ have been discovered in space of a square inch, one-fiftieth of an inch thick. But probably in this case from Springfield the number scarcely exceeded one half that number. There are two stages of this disease when it runs in a regular course. First, one of intense pain in the stomach and bowels, and, second, that of muscular irritation. The first is probably owing to the passage of the parasite upon and through the coats of the intestine, and and the latter due to the vermicular motion through the fibers of the muscles. In the first stage, within a week or ten days after the ingestion of the food, the symptoms may be very much like those of cholerine. There is pain, sickness of the stomach, vomiting, diarrhea, fetid breath, heartburn, &c., or the symptoms like a severe colic or bowel difficulty. In the second stage there is a swelling or puffiness of the face, especially about the eyes, and sometimes it extends to the throat and vocal passages, so that it produces a hoarseness of the voice. A great fever heat rages, and the pulse is accelerated to 134, and respiration from 30 to 36. Violent perspiration is also a symptom of this stage. But the most marked features are seen in the muscles, which become swollen, hard and painful, the patient suffering agony upon any pressure or attempt to move the limbs, and lying generally upon the back. Death may occur from paralysis or typhoidal symptoms.

THE PROGRESS OF RECONSTRUCTION.—Reconstruction still goes on. Every gale that sweeps from the South brings to our ears accounts of gathering hosts of white and black, and bleached men, standing shoulder to shoulder, very literally, and promptly taking the initiative steps towards reconstructing themselves. This is glorious and cannot fail to secure salvation? True, checks have been attempted by Mississippi and Georgia, in the shape of an application to the Supreme Court for injunctions. It is very doubtful, in view of the decision of Taney in the Rhode Island case, whether the Court will entertain them. But suppose it should do so, grant the injunctions, stop proceedings, and decide the law unconstitutional, and suppose that the South should send her delegates to Congress, would that body receive them? And suppose she should send electoral votes to the Electoral College, would Congress allow them to be counted? And who feels able to punish Congress for contumacy? Show me the man or set of men. There's the rub. The easiest way is the best way. Congress has the inside and will keep it. Should the good work go on as it has begun, the South will lift herself out of the clutches of the military in a few months. Her Constitution will be framed and accepted by Congress, and she will come with a representation to the Capital larger than ever before, and will be admitted. Her electoral votes will come up to the Electoral College more numerous than ever before, and they will be counted. This is "a consummation devoutly to be wished," and the South is at this moment directly in the line of its attainment. No worse calamity could befall the South than the success of their efforts, now being made, to set aside the Sherman bill, and render all the efforts at reconstruction abortive. Disastrous delays, more stringent measures emanating from the same inflexible power, and some slight changes in the Supreme Bench death must soon make room for, may be safely reckoned among the probable results which would flow from such success.—Washington Letter.

NATIONAL ASYLUM.—A Washington despatch of the date of April 12th says

At a meeting of the managers of the National Asylum to-day, quite a spirited contest was had over the location of a central asylum. The board was unanimous that it should be located in Ohio, but the contest was between Dayton and White Sulpher Springs. The committee which visited Ohio reported in favor of Dayton, but the low price at which the Springs property was offered made it many friends. It was finally purchased, provided that the Columbus and Cleveland road would, at its own cost, extend a line to the Springs and run daily passenger trains there; or if the company refuse, the executive committee was instructed to purchase lands west of Dayton, provided the citizens donate $20,000 towards the purchase.

The transfer of the Ohio Soldiers' Home to the National Asylum was ratified, and the thanks of the board returned to the Legislature of Ohio therefor.

The following officers were elected for the Ohio Asylum Deputy Governor, Capt E E. Racy, of Ohio; Chaplain, Rev. Henry Hill, of New Hampshire; Surgeon, Dr McDermont, of Ohio; Steward, A. P. Woodruff, of Illinois

The National Asylum cared for or assisted 1,000 disabled volunteer soldiers last year, and proposes to care for or help at home twice that number next year.

JOHN H. SURRATT.—The National Intelligencer, speaking of this individual, has the following:

This remarkable individual, who is like a character in "Doodles" that is heard from alternately, still lives From reliable information it is definitely ascertained that he sleeps soundly, and rises every morning early, dresses himself without the assistance of a servant, eats heartily, reads the newspapers, smokes his pipe, and, if the weather permits, is allowed to walk under guard in the jail yard. His sister visits him nearly every day, and his brother is allowed the same privilege occasionally. The people in Lower Maryland provide him with not only the substantials, but the delicacies of life. Surratt often speaks of his travels, and laughs heartily at the idea of his jumping down a precipice as "high as the Patent Office building;" says that it was a low embankment, and that he cut his hand rather badly when he fell

A PLEASANT SUGGESTION.—A lover who was slighted by the females, very modestly asked a young lady if she would let him spend the evening with her.

"No," she angrily replied, "that's what I won't."

"Why," replied he, "you needn't be so fussy; I didn't mean this evening, but some stormy one when I can't go anywhere else."

The remains of 2,181 Union soldiers, who fell during McClellan's memorable struggle on the Peninsula, have recently been interred in a beautiful national cemetery erected in the vicinity of Yorktown. The cemetery stands on the Yorktown and Williamsburgh road, about a quarter of a mile outside the old rebel intrenchments, and is tastefully laid out in four equal sections of ground, with large grass plots, trees and shrubbery intermingling with a happy effect. The graves are arranged parallel to each other, five feet apart from center to center. The bodies here interred were obtained only by the greatest exertion from the different battle and skirmish fields at Less Mills, Grafton Church, Warwick Court House, Williamsburgh, Bickerton, White House Landing, Cumberland, West Point, Brick House Point, King William Court-house, Enoch's Church, Crump's Crossroads, Hanover Court-house, Young's Mills, Ship Point, Upper Grafton Church and Mechanicsville.
